DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As per claim 1, the limitations of the recitation "such that the operator presses the number of the current day using the said classification keys and at the same time records and stores, which is then displayed on the said screen and, following verification, through the operation of the said operation keys, the searched calculated results are shown on the said screen, and also displayed are the records, corrections, and searches inputted by the various said function key and in coordination with the said classification keys, the said operation keys, and the said function keys", lines 5-11, are unclear. In addition, the phrases "the number of the current day", lines 5-6, "records and stores", lines 6-7, "verification", line 7, "the searched calculated results", line 8, "corrections" and "searches", line 9, are also indefinite as to what they are mean in the claim. Further, "the operator", line 5, "the number", line 5, "the current day", line 6, "the operation", line 8, "the various said function key", line 10, "the portable calculator", line 12, and "the conventional situations", line 13, lack proper antecedent basis.

As per claim 2, The recitation "such that after the statistical operation by an event and a total said operation key", lines 4-5, is also indefinite as to what it means. Further, "the statistical operation" lacks a proper antecedent basis.

As per claim 3, it is indefinite as to what "event", and "instances" are mean in the claim. Claims also have the same problem.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4, so far as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Nishimura et al. (5,021,952)

Nishimura clearly discloses in figure 1 a classificatory accounting calculator having a displace screen and a plurality of classification, operation and functions keys for recording and displaying spending records as claimed.

4. Claims 1-4, so far as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Hausdorff (4192006)

Hausdorff clearly discloses in figure 1, a classificatory accounting calculator having a display screen and a plurality of classification, operation and functions keys for recording and displaying spending records as claimed.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
